

For the safety and health of our staff, their loved ones and our guests, Rebirth and Galliano Restaurants will temporarily suspend operations until the foreseeable time being. Once we have a chance to assess the progression of the current situation, we will make a determination as to which course to take. We are considering the development of a take-out service and curbside pickup, but think it prudent to step back for a little time and see how things change.

This is a frightening time for everyone, but with determination, courage and mindfulness, we will get through it together. Our city has proved time and time again that we are made of stronger stuff.

Be safe. Be kind. Be helpful.
