

Which Mouseketool will help the pony float to the ground?
Right! The Blimpy Blazer!

“All right! We got the pony down safely,” says Mickey.

Suddenly, the friends hear another sound. Oink, oink, oink!

It’s the piggies! The cluck-cluck chicken coop sheltered them from the wind. But now the piggies are ready to come down.

“Uh-oh,” says Mickey. “The piggies need a safe place to land!”

Mickey and his friends call, “Oh, Toodles!”

Toodles appears in a jiffy with the perfect Mouseketool—a nice, soft blanket!

Donald and Goofy hold the blanket tight as the piggies glide down the twisty slide. One, two, three little piggies!

MICKEY & DONALD HAVE A FARM

Goofy and Donald help the horsey and piggies into the clickety-clack tractor's wagon.

On the way back to the barn, Mickey hears Farmer Clarabelle. "Oh, cluck-cluck chickens, where can you be?" she cries.

Mickey has an idea. "Your chickens love to sing," he says. "Let's all sing a song together. I bet the cluck-cluck chickens will come out and join in, too!"

*“Oh, Mickey ’n’ Donald have a farm,
Meeska, Mouseke-doo!
And on our farm we have cluck-cluck chickens,
Meeska, Mouseke-doo!”*

Before long, Clarabelle’s chickens come out of the tall grass. Clarabelle is so happy. “Oh, thank you, Mickey!” she says. Mickey smiles. “Aw, helping friends is what friends are for!”

Soon the friends see somebody else in need of help.

“Cowabunga!” says Goofy.
“Mrs. Cow is stuck in that tire like a cork in a bottle!”

“We need a Mouseketool!” says Mickey. “Let’s use the fishing pole to catch the tire!”

“Yeah!” says Goofy. “Then the tire will stop swinging!”

“And the cow, too!” Donald adds.

Donald catches the tire and holds it steady.

“Okeydoke, Mrs. Cow,” Goofy says calmly.
“Just wiggle yourself out and . . .”

Suddenly, Mrs. Cow pops free and lands right in Goofy’s arms!

“Hot dog!” says Mickey. “Now it’s back to the barn!”
