

Zagat

Review from Zagat 2007/2008

"Awed" admirers are "calling all foodies" to taste chef Eric Lomando's "amazing", "inventive" French cooking – the seafood-focused blackboard menu "changes daily" – at this "teeny" St. James bistro (object of a "recent sprucing up"), whose BYO policy makes it even more of a "bargain"; yes, it's "hard to find", and weekend reservations, though "essential", can be "virtually impossible to get", but the "phenomenal" food, enhanced by "helpful" service, makes it "well worth the effort."
